Thank goodness!

Have you ever tried to write a gratitude list and just got bored with writing the same things? Come to the cemetery and we'll give you a whole new look at your life!

Some things to be grateful for:

~Having a cold is not a death threat like it was before the 1880s!

~Children are literally 99.9994% safer today than before 1880s!

~Summer is 87% safer than it was in the 1800s!

~and more!

Is your student a Legacy Learner?!

Enjoy this wonderful field trip destination for your students interested in taking a walk through time! Pick one of our unforgettable tours and we will include a workshop with students imagining through their writings the lives of (). These families have generously given consent for education and creative cultivation of young legacy learners.

Learn more about our Legacy Learners Program

Our Legacy Learner Program has partnered with the Nashville Public Library to enrich your kid's learning through an immersive combination of literature and visits through time around Nashville. The books selected to add context to history are also in the library's summer reading list, so your legacy learner will earn goodies with knowledge!

Friendly Reminder:

- Be sure to visit President James K Polk's Tomb if you're into grave architecture!
- Respect the grounds!
- We'd love to hear about your visit! Share your photos and stories on social media using our hashtag #NashvilleCityCemetery
